WILLIAM M. TWEED'S TRIAL.

Judge Davis's Pleasantries The Actual Trial to Begin This Morning.

William M. Tweed's trial on the big inlictment was again moved in the Oyer and Terniner vesterday Messrs, D. D. Field, John Graam, John E. Burrill, Willard Bartlett, Wm. Fulerton, and Elihu Root, were early in their seats. The motion for the trial having been made by District Attorney Phelps,
Mr. Field asked which indictment they proposed to take up first.

Mr. Peckham—The indictment against him jointly with Connolly and Hall.

Mr. Field asked whether the Court would not take up the motions to quash the other indictments.

The Court said that the District Attorney having moved the one indictment the others were not before it.

Mr. Fleid then appealed to the District Attorney to permit the other motions to be heard.

The Court held that that was a matter for the District Attorney's discretion, and the District Attorney declined to allow the other cases to be now heard.

Mr. Burrill said that no day had been set for trial end asked to be heard on the question as to now heard.

Mr. Burrill said that no day had been set for trial end asked to be heard on the question as to what day should be set for trial.

Mr. Peckham recited the efforts that had been made for delay, and insisted that the case was set down by Judge Ingraham for Monday, the 6th, for trial, and for nothing else; that the defendant was informed on Friday that this cause was to be called for trial, though such notice was matter of courtey and not of right. He insisted that this was a further effort for delay, and that the delay should not be granted.

Mr. Burrill replied at some length, disclaiming any intent to delay, and insisting that the delays already obtained were just and necessary, and that the case had not been set down by Judge ingraham for trial, but merely for discussion of the time of trial. He moved for a postponement on the ground cheffy that there were fifty five offences charged in the indictment, and four counts on each offence—20 counts in all.

Judge Davis—More counts than in a German principality.

Mr. Graham said that if his Honor would com-

Mr. Graham said that if his Honor would compet the prosecution to elect on which counts they would go to trial, they would not ask any very long indulgence, further than was absolutely necessary to prepare their defence. Perincipal of the property of the Judge Davis did not think he ought now to grant this motion. The proper time for such a motion was, he thought, at the close of the people's case. The uniting of various offences in one indictment was rather in favor of the prisoner, as there could be, as he understood, but one penalty on one indictment.

Mr. Graham understood his Honor to be right on that point.

It was at length arranged that a jury should be impanelled this morning.

Warden Tracy's Ball.

The second annual ball of the John M. Tracy Coterio was the feature on Monday night. Walhalls Hall was decorated with banners representing the States, and brilliant bunting, suspended from the ceiling, was arranged so as to make a beautiful arch over the entire floor. Wallace's Band supplied the music. The word "Welcome," in large letters formed of gas jets, was displayed in front of the orchestra. At the ends of the hall were the calcium lights designed for use in the shadow dances. Under one of the arches stood a fountain which sont out a spray of perfume. Warden Tracy and his assistant, Wm. L. Gardner, saw that all their guests were pleased. Over 550 ast down to supper, each having a bothle of champagne.

Among the guests were mrs. John M. Tracy, who had hardly recovered from the fatigue consequent upon her New Year's reception; Mr. and Mrs. John Hooper, Corver of the public can only feel the requisite confidence when protected by restricted charters and defining the public from the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and defining the public from the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of its agents when confidence when protected by restricted charters and electron the deliverations of

THE FIGHT ON THE BRIDGE THE COMPANY'S BOOKS OPEN FOR

INSPECTION AT LAST. Damaging Exposure of Extravagance and Mismanagement-Two Reports of the Investigating Committee and a Reply. The Directors of the New York Bridge Company have at length yielded to the popular demand and given to the public the long-suppressed reports of the investigating committee appointed in June last. At their last meeting they resolved to adopt this course, taking time, however, to alter somewhat the original shape of the reports. To what extent they have been doctored the public will probably never know, as the Directors seem very unwilling to say what modifications have been made. Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, one of the investigating committee, says that the majority report is in its original shape with the exception of an alteration of one sentence, which is not at all material to the issue. He says further, that Mr. Barnes had power to make such changes in the minority report as he might choose. Senator Murphy, the President of the Board, in submitting the reports, explains the delay in their publication as

THE MAJORITY REPORT.

Messrs. Hewitt and Schroeder, a majority of the committee, after stating generally the object of the appointment of the committee, report that the charter of the company is defective, in that while it provides that the cities of New York and Brooklyn may be represented in the Board of Directors by six cx officio members, yet these Directors have really no voice in the management of its affairs, the control of the expenditure of money being vested in the Directors elected by the private stockholders. They claim that this is unfair, as these two cities have taken $4.500.600 of the stock, while the private individuals own only $500.000 worth. They say:

Your committee are therefore of opinion that some amendment to the charter is necessary in order to protect the public interests, and they can see no reason why at the election of Directors the stock belonging to the cities of New York and Brooklyn should not be entitled to representation in the same manner as other stock. In no other way can the expenditure of the public interest as appears now to be the case, he happens to own or represent a majority of the private stock. Such a control is dangerous, impolitic, averse to all sound business principles, and alien to the spirit of our institutions.

Resolved, That the counsel of the company be instructed to prepare and submit to the boart for approval and THE MAJORITY REPORT.

The same report recommends the adoption of the following:

Resolved, That the counsel of the company be instructed to prepare and submit to the board for approval an amendment to the charter of the company, authorizing the cities of New York and Brooklyn to vote upon the stock held by them, such vote to be east by three Commissioners, to be non nated by the Governor and commissioners, to be non nated by the Governor and Commissioners to select the Directors, for whom the vote of the said cities shall be cast, from the stock-holders, and such other persons as may seem to them it and proper directors, taking care, so far as may be practicable, that the private stockholders are represented in the board in proportion to the stock held by them.

THE WHITEWASH.

LIBERALITY OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

By way of explaining this singular state of affairs the report says:

The resolution of July 5, 1870, in reality fixed the compensation of Mr. Kingsley at 15 per centum on the expenditures inatead of 5 per cent, but when at a subsequent date it was found how large the compensation would be the rate was reduced to 5 per centum, with the concurrence of Mr. Kingsley, and an erasure made in the minute book to make the original resolution correspond to this change. Meanwhile Mr. Kingsley had actually drawn compensation at the rate of 15 per centuand finally, when the amount was liquidated at $125,000, refunded the excess of $50,000 which ne had so drawn.

The report closes with a recommendation to the board to adopt the following:

Ecological That the Executive Committee be and the Resolved. That the Executive Committee be and the same is hereby authorized and directed to employ a Superintendent, at a salary not to exceed that paid to the Chief Engineer, which is at present $10,000 per annum, from Jan. 1, 1872.

THE MINORITY REPORT.

Mr. Barnes, who makes the minority report, after calling attention to the danger of undertaking to withhold from the public any action of the company, especially as it is from the people that the money is to be obtained with which to build the bridge, enters upon a lengthy examination of the affairs of the company, from its organization to June, 1872. He condemns the action of the Executive Committee in voting to the Superintendent so large an amount of money for his services, and adds that no report of their action was ever made to the board, some of the directors having never heard of it until recently. On the mystery of the two resolutions given in the majority report, and the erasure from the books of the figure fifteen and the insertion of the figure five, he says that no explanation is given, and adds sarcastically: Explanation is given, and adds sarcastically:
This change of terms with the Superintendent must have relinquished afteen per cent. profit on a large sum yet to be expended.
The right to make or extend this arrangement, or any other arrangement, exists in the charter. There are as good reasons for making it now as existed then. Paying in 10 per cent. Installments on $100,000 or $500,000 of $500,000 o

THE PURCHASE OF MATERIALS.

He criticizes the manner in which the materials have been purchased and advises an amendment of the charter of the company in the manner proposed by the majority report.

His report concludes as follows:

WHAT THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE SAY.

The Executive Committee, in their answer to the two reports of the committee of investigation endeavor to explain away the damaging charges which they contain. They say that their allowance to the Superintendent of a percentage on the amount of expenditures was not without precedent, as such an allowance is customary, and is now made by the Government in the case of the Post Office now being built in New York. As to the resolution reducing Mr. Kingsley's remuneration for his services from five per cent. of the expenditures to the gross amount of $125,-600, they say:

The assent of Mr. Kingsley to the change was given on the condition that he should be relieved of a certain portion of the stock of the company he was carried, which we agreed to do in our individual capacities. Sild the assistance of two other members of the board, at our reduces. Dr purchasing from him and paying him

They then give in detail the materials which have been purchased, together with the prices paid for them, striving to show that bids were received in every instance, and that THE SAW MILL AND LUMBER COMPANY,

THE SAW MILL AND LUMBER COMPANY, in which Mr. Kingslev is a stockholder, only obtained the contracts when their bids were the lowest. The committee entirely exonerate Mr. Kingsley from the charge of having taken advantage of his position to make money for himself and his friends. They are especially severe on the minority report submitted by Mr. Barnes. They say that when he moved for the appointment of this committee on investigation he was allowed to constitute it himself, and that he did so. They deny that their own actions have been kept back from the Directors of the company, and indignantly repel Mr. Barne's insinuation that any of the members of the Executive Committee have been at any time interested in the percentage paid to Mr. Kingsley. The reports show that the capital stock of the company is $5.000,000, of which only sixty per cent. has been paid in. The expenditures up to June, 1872, were $3,141,389.74.

YESTERDAY IN THE U. S. SENATE.

in Improvement for Brooklyn-The Navy Yard Swamp to be Made Useful-Looking into Arkansas and Louisiana. Mr. Buckingham (Rep., Conn.) introduced a bill amendatory of the National Currency act of June 30, 1864. The bill provides for free bankings prohibits direct or indirect payment of interest on deposits, allows United States bonds bearing coin interest to be counted as well as lawful money in the reserves, and provides that banks money in the reserves, and provides that banks may redeem their circulating notes either in coin or in legal tenders, or in United States bonds at par with accrued interest, at the option of the banks; it also provides that United States legal tenders in sums of $1.00 may be redeemed on demand of the holder either with coin or with United States currency bonds bearing a coin interest of 3.65 per cent., and that the principal of any United States bonds bearing coin interest shall on demand by the holder be paid by the United States Treasurer in legal tender notes and the interest in coin. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act are to be free from State and municipal taxation. The last section requires the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds as herein described, legal tender notes of denominations not higher than $100 nor less than $5 respectively, and to make all regulations necessary to execute the provisions of this act.

THE BROOKLYN NAVY YARD LANDS.

regulations necessary to execute the provisions of this act.

THE BROOKLYN NAVY YARD LANDS.

Mr. Anthony (Rep., R. I.) introduced a bill directing the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a contract with the New York and Brooklyn Improvement Company for the lease and improvement of the swamp and overflowed lands connected with the United States Navy Yard at Brooklyn. The company is to expend $500,000 in said improvements, and enjoy the use of the lands and contemplated docks for fifty years as compensatian therefor, or be reimbursed if the Government takes the property sooner.

By Mr. Frelinghuysen (Rep., N. J.)—A joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide that disputes arising with regard to the persons chosen as electors of President and Vice-President in any State shall be decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, and that Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

THE LOUISLANA AND ARKANSAS ELECTIONS.

THE LOUISIANA AND ARKANSAS ELECTIONS.

Mr. Sherman (Rep., Ohio) called up a resolution offered by him yesterday, directing the Committee on Privileges and Elections to inquire and report whether the recent election has been conducted in Louisiana and Arkansas in accordance with the Constitution and laws of the United States, and to inquire also what contests have arisen out of the election, and what measures are necessary to provide for the determination of such contests in future.

Mr. Thurman (Dem., Ohio) said that although he should vote for the resolution he did not wish to be committed to all that was implied in it. The resolution directed the committee to inquire whether the recent election had been conducted in accordance with the Constitution and laws of the United States had no right to make any laws on this subject, except to fix the time for holding the election. The resolution therefore seemed to assume for Congress a broader jurisdiction than that granted by the Constitution. As to the recent events in Louisiana and Arkansas, he believed that a great error had been committed, and a great wrong perpetrated, but he would not speak on that subject now lest he should provoke debate.

Mr. Sherman thought it would be unwise to go into a debate on this subject in advance of the information which this resolution was designed to obtain; and in deference to the views of his colleague (Mr. Thurman) he would modify the resolution so as to direct the committee to inquire whether the election was held in accordance with the Constitution and laws of the United States and the laws of said States.

Mr. Trumbull (Lib., Ill.) thought it very doubtful whether Congress had a right to inquire whether the election had been conducted in accordance with the laws of a State.

After further discussion the resolution was passed.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

The indian appropriation sile.

The unfinished business, being the Indian appropriation bill, was then resumed, and the usual discussion of the Indian policy followed.

An amendment was adopted directing the Secretary of the Interior to communicate to Congress what appropriations may in his judgment be dispensed with; also an amendment appropriating $50,000 to remove the Winnebago Indians of Wisconsin to Indian Territory, if they consent to go.

At the benefit in the Academy of Music yesterday, in aid of Mr. Barnum's company, the great showman said:

Ladies And Gentlemen: I have catered for so many years for the amusement of the public, that the beneficiaries on this occasion seem to have thought that the showman aimself ought to be a part of the show; and, at their request, I come before you. I sincerely thank you, in their benalt, for your patronage on this occasion. How much they need your patronage on this occasion. How much they need your patronage on this occasion. How much they need your substantial sympathy, the ashes acroas the street can tell you more eloquently than human tongue could utter. Those ashes are the remnants of "all the worldly goods" of some who appeal to you to-day.

For myself, have been burned out so often, I am like the singer who was hissed on the stage: "His away," said he, "I am need to it." My pecuniary loss is vory serious, and occurring as it did, just before the holiders, it was the more disastrous.

The statement of the more disastrous.

The statement of the stage of the st years it has been my pleasure to provide a class of instructive and amosing entercianments, to which a refined Christian mother can take her children with satisfaction.

I believe that no other man in America poecesses the desire and facilities which I have in this direction. I have, therefore, taken steps, through all my agents in Europe and this country, which will enable me to put upon the road, early in April, the mest gigantic and complete travelling museum, menageric, and hippodrome ever organized.

It has been asked whether I will build up a large museum and menageric in New York. Well, I am now nearly sixty-three years of age, I can buy plenty of building sites and get plenty of leased lots for a new museum; but leannot get a new isase of life. I am situated, in this respect, some as Mr. Vanderbilt. A man offered to sell him a horse. What is his pedigree?" asked Mr. Vanderbilt. It was given him. "Ah, that is the best blood in the country, and i will buy him at a fair price. How fast is he?" If think he will travel in two twenty when the gets old enough." "Rolled he owner. "He is a a two-year-old colt." "A colt! I can't wait for colts," axchaimed hiv. Vanderbilt.

I can scarcely wait for leases; but younger members of my family desire me to a greet in this city an establishment worthy of New York and of myself. It will be no small underfaking; for if I erect such an establishment, it will possess novel and costly features never before attempted. I have it under consideration, and within a month shall determine whether I shall do it or not.

One thing, however, you may be assured, ladies and gentlemen, although conflagrations may for the present disconcert my plans, yet while I have life and healt in office and hurn nor water quench my delight in always gratifying my patrons at whatever cost of money or of effort. I shall never ican my name where my lahors and heart do not also go, and he public shall never fall to find at any of my exhibitions their money's worth

SAUGERTIES, N. Y., Jan. 4.—About three miles from here is a place called Centreville. It consists of about a dozen shantles. On New Year's night there was a dance. The quarrymen of the neighborhood and their wives participated in it. The house was crowded. Liquor was drunk freely, and the party, both men and women, became noisy and boisterous. A little after eleven a party of roughs arrived to break few rounds of drinks a dispute grose about the measurement of stone. The altercation culthe greater part of those in attendance. Some of the women, terror stricken, rushed wildly the greater part of those in attendance. Some of the women, terror stricken, rushed wildly about to escape injury. Others joined in the miles to defend their husbands. Clubs were used, glasses thrown, and chairs broken.

A sister of Hillyer fied from the barroom up the stairway. When she reached the upper landing she was hit on the head by some one of the mob, and knocked headforemost down stairs. The top of her skull was taken completely off, the brains being exposed. She died almost instantly.

For a moment there was a lull in the brutal conflict; but it was speedily renewed with increased ferecity. The combatanta above stairs rushed madly down, and a desperate encounter took place over the prostrate form of the murdered woman. The corpse was trampled upon by the savage mob, and so disfigured as to be barely recognizable.

While the fighting was going on at the foot of the stairs Mrs. Stewart of this place rushed into the barroom to defend her husband. She endeavored to explain that Stewart was not the cause of the fight, and begged that the rumans would not murder him. Scarcely had the words escaped her lips before she was knocked down and inhumanly kicked and trampled upon. Two of her ribs were crushed in, and she was otherwise seriously injured.

The mob in the hall had by this time fought their way, step by step, up stairs. The men in the barroom now rushed out to ascend the staircase. As they were going up, a woman, name unknown, came tumbling down, having been brutally beaten above stairs. She was terribly injured about the head, and bruised from head to foot. Soon after the fight terminated. There was hardly a person in the house who was not more or less injured.

The Coroner's investigation is now in progress. No arrests have yet been mide. The funeral of the murdered woman took place yesterday.

TUESDAY, Jan. 7-P. M.-The operations at vaded the speculative movements of small as well as the more noted speculators. The street, however, was remarkably free of any gossip; but those manipulators remarkably free of any gossip; but those manipulators of the late advance are credited with having disposed of their holdings during the high prices only to become operators for a decline since the new year. This will partially explain the depression of Pacific Mail, Western Union Telegraph, Rock Island, Wabash, and some other shares, and possibly furnish a cause for the Ohios, C., C. and I. There is not, however, apparent just at present any important leading spirit, the movements of yesterday and to-day developing nothing except that the market had been left to take care of itself.
